The latest raid on Tokyo was accomplished by precision instruments and results were not observed because of cloud coverage, said a 20th Air Force communique, but the Japanese admitted that fires were started at "several places."

Flak Is Meagre

Air crewmen reported that anti-aircraft fire over the city was meagre and inaccurate, and there was no mention of fighter opposition which the Japs had claimed was "hot."

Neither the latest communique nor dispatches from Saipan made any mention of a double-bombed night attack on Tokyo has had been reported by the Japanese radio.

(BULLETIN)

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(INS)—More than 1,200 American B-24 bombers and Flying Fortresses of the U. S. 8th Air Force today lashed out against the Germans' dwindling fuel supply, striking the synthetic oil refineries at Bohlen, Zeitz, Merseburg and Lutzendorf.

Taking advantage of a break in weather over the European continent, the 8th Air Force planes joined in what appeared to be a huge sky assault against targets in the Reich and on the western front.

Heavy explosions were heard across the English channel as the bombs shattered the Dunkerque area, among other spots on the continent.

Observers along the channel coast earlier reported that great formations of Allied bombers were roaring into action.

Headquarters of the American Eighth Air Force disclosed that the daylight raiders also struck enemy rail marshalling yards in the area of Saarbrücken, vital communications center that now lies in the path of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's American Third Army troops.

Attorney General Biddle issued a simultaneous statement on the Littell matter in which he accused his assistant of issuing "reckless and unfounded statements."

Germans Make Savage Attack On Italian Front

By MICHAEL CHINIGO

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 30.—Thirteen more Japanese ships and an estimated 4,000 troops attempting to reinforce the Jap garrison on Leyte Island lay at the bottom of the Camotes Sea today, following another smashing aerial victory by American planes.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, in his morning communique, reported that bomb-carrying Thunderbolt and Warhawk fighters spotted the convoys well out at sea, destroying one large cargo transport, seven troop transports and three escorting destroyers.

Two additional large cargo ships which succeeded in reaching Ormoc and discharging supplies were bombed into complete wreckage by the deadly fighter-bombers.

Seek To Aid Yamashita

It was believed that the troop transports which the Yankee pilots sent to the bottom contained a large segment of the Imperial Japanese Second Division, dispatched to reinforce Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's badly pounded forces holding out in the Ormoc corridor.

Seven Jap planes in a formation offering cover to the convoy were blasted from the skies by American airmen who suffered no losses in the furious air battles.

"Fire power for Eisenhower" is the No. 1 need of the American armies right now. More shells, more artillery, more calling cards of victory to drop in the lap of the Germans. Something must be done and it's going to be done pronto.

Twenty-seven veterans of the front line fighting around Aachen have been flown back to the United States to impress civilians with the immediate need for more fire power. New Offensive In Hungary By Russian Forces

Soviet Third Ukrainian
Army Sweeps Westward
On 93-Mile Front

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Nov. 30.—The Soviet third Ukrainian army swept westward in southern Hungary today along a 93-mile front in a new offensive which carried the Russians across the Danube and engulfed more than 330 cities, towns and villages.

The Russians made their first dash across the Danube north of the confluence with the Drava river in a vast flanking move to the south of Budapest which mounted a second threat against Austria and wrested the great rail centers of Pecs, Mohacs and Bataszek.

New Offensive

Marshal Joseph Stalin announced the sweeping new offensive in an order of the day addressed to Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin, commander of the third Ukrainian army, and a supplementary communique reported that an incomplete count showed the seizure of more than 1,500 prisoners, along with vast quantities of supplies and arms.

Pecs, an important coal mining town 100 miles south, southwest of Budapest, was taken from the Germans at the apex of the first day's advance. As the Russians broke out in their sweep across the Danube, they quickly seized Mohacs on the western bank of the stream, beat down frantic Nazi counter-attacks and raced another 23 miles to Pecs.

Seize Center

Some 16 miles to the north of Mohacs on the rail line to Budapest, the Soviets also seized the vital communications center of Bataszek and pushed the Nazis beyond the limits of the town toward the northwest.

Mohacs itself is a historic battleground and the scene of a disastrous Hungarian defeat in 1526 by the invading Turkish columns.

With other Soviet columns advancing in the direction of Austria to the north of Budapest, the Hungarian capital is being menaced in a gigantic enveloping movement, which may force an eventual Nazi withdrawal toward Vienna.

Meanwhile, the sale of bonds to individuals through Tuesday totaled $98,247,271, of which $50,988,310 is in series E bonds.

Both Major Boynton and Miss Lester agreed that the next thing needed at the Annex was an occupational therapist who would direct the men in teaching wood craft, machine practice and other skilled crafts.

Land Based Planes Big Factor At Leyte

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIGIE
(Written Especially For International News Service)

Most significant news from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's campaign in Leyte of the Philippines deals with the increasingly sensational and impressive performances of the land-based bombers and fighter planes of his air force. American land-based aircraft, operating from hastily constructed fields in Leyte have been prominent in dispatches for about two weeks now, turning in exploits of constantly growing proportions.

On Monday, MacArthur's fighter-bombers repulsed a force of Japanese bombers that was trying to stage an attack on American shipping in Leyte gulf, blasting 15 of the Mikado's planes out of the sky. Yesterday, in breaking up Nipponese attempts to land elements of the Mikado's second division, American's bomber squadrons based on Leyte sank 13 Japanese ships, bearing an estimated 4,000 troops to bring their total of ships sunk or wrecked within recent days to 43, and the total of Japanese troops lost during the same period to 20,000.

Important Figures

These are important figures in any kind of war, but in the particular war Gen. MacArthur is fighting their loss and the fact that ships and troops were destroyed by land-based planes is a significant factor.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(INS)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill celebrated his 70th birthday today with an address to the House of Commons which promised better days for civilians after the fall of Germany but warned that the defeat of Japan will have first call on British supply even after the Nazis are crushed.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—The American Ninth Army, taking full advantage of improved weather over the western front which enabled aerial units to lend strong support, hammered north-eastward from the Geilenkirchen sector today in a formidable new attack aimed at crushing the German Roer river defenses.

The Ninth Army onslaught, in conjunction with the First Army punching its way relentlessly forward east of Aachen, was matched in the south by the unchecked drive of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army against the industrial Saar region.

Second Phase Of Bond Drive Friday

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—(INS)—With 27 per cent of Pennsylvania's $370,000,000 quota in sales to individuals already raised, the second phase of the Sixth War Loan drive will open tomorrow to raise $568,000,000 in sales to corporations.

"Corporations always have oversubscribed their quotas in previous drives, and I am sure they will repeat this time," said G. Ruhland Reimann, Jr., chairman of the state war finance committee.

Meanwhile, the sale of bonds to individuals through Tuesday totaled $98,247,271, of which $50,988,310 is in series E bonds.

Both Major Boynton and Miss Lester agreed that the next thing needed at the Annex was an occupational therapist who would direct the men in teaching wood craft, machine practice and other skilled crafts.

New men have come to the Annex from the hospital at Butler in the past week and others who have been at the Annex for the prescribed period of time have gone back. At present there are about 100 men at the Annex with the possibility of a larger number being added.

Land Based Planes Big Factor At Leyte

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIG
(Written Especially For International News Service)

Most significant news from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's campaign in Leyte of the Philippines deals with the increasingly sensational and impressive performances of the land based bombers and fighter planes of his air force. American land-based aircraft operating from hastily-constructed fields in Leyte have been prominent in dispatches for about two weeks now, turning in exploits of constantly growing proportions.

On Monday MacArthur's fighter planes repulsed a force of Japanese bombers that was trying to stage an attack on American shipping in Leyte gulf, blasting 15 of the Mikado's planes out of the sky. Yesterday, in breaking up Nipponese attempts to land elements of the Mikado's second division, America's bomber squadrons based on Leyte sank 13 Japanese ships, bearing an estimated 4,000 troops, to bring their total of ships sunk or wrecked within recent days to 43, and the total of Japanese troops lost during the same period to 20,000.

Tokyo Hit By First Aerial Night Attack

Japanese Feel Effects Of Attack Carried Out Under
"Bomber's Moon"

By PHILIP G. REED
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

B-29 BASE, Saipan, Nov. 30.—(East Longitude Date)—Tokyo learned the naked dread of a "bomber's moon" last night.

For the first time in the war the Japanese capital was subjected to a night aerial attack. A medium force of Superfortresses roared over the city in waves as a full moon rode high.

It was the third B-29 raid in six days and the first attempted at night in a pattern developed by the Royal Air Force that proved so devastating over Europe. A statement by Twenty-first Bomber Commander Brig. Gen. Haywood Hansell Jr. revealed that with the aid of the moon the attack was intended to combine the best features of both area and pinpoint daylight bombing.

Hansell's statement said: "The industrial and shipping targets in Tokyo bay should stand out sharply against the outline of the (Continued on Page Two)

Sales Nearing First Million

War bond sales in Lawrence county took a spurt in the past 24 hours and the total individual sales at noon today was roughly $800,000. The showing of the 24 hours was good but the over all showing isn't up to the point where it should be yet.

Solicitors are really in the game by now, house to house solicitation is picking up, and the school children are competing against each other for the honor of being high.

Every dollar put out for war bonds means a little less until Germany folds up. Money is needed for artillery, for shells, for tanks and trucks to feed the capacious maw of the war machine on the western front.

This isn't an invitation affair and nobody needs to wait until he is invited or solicited. This is the people's war and it needs the people's money. Lawrence county has never failed in a war bond drive yet. This would be an odd time to fall down when the goal is almost in sight.

More Than 35,000 Prisoners Taken

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris, Nov. 30.—(INS)—The capture of more than 35,000 Nazi prisoners in recent fighting along the western front by the U. S. first, third and ninth armies was revealed today at the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Since November 16 the ninth army has taken 7,000 captives and the first army 6,500. The bag of the third army since Nov. 8 totaled 22,000.

DRIVER IS HELD

City Policemen Reese and Rieby last night arrested R. Rhodes, 742 County Line street, on a charge of operating a motor vehicle in West Washington street, while intoxicated. Police Chief Robert D. Hanna stated he would swear to an information charging Rhodes with the offense before Alderman J. C. Brice sometime today.

BANDITS ROB GAS STATION

LANCASTER, Pa., Nov. 30.—(INS)—Three men traveling in a black sedan robbed a gasoline station at nearby Elizabethtown today and escaped with $45 and gasoline ration stamps.

C. S. Collins, 47, the attendant, told police one of the men had a revolver and the trio had forced him to open the cash drawer which he rifled of $40 and ration coupons. Before they fled, they took Collins' wallet containing $5.

Aerial Units Aid In Latest Attacks Against Germans

Improved Weather Condi-

GAINS ARE MADE AT MANY POINTS

By THURSTON MACAULEY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Nov. 30.—The American Ninth Army, taking full advantage of improved weather over the western front which enabled aerial units to lend strong support, hammered north-eastward from the Geilenkirchen sector today in a formidable new attack aimed at crushing the German Roer river defenses.

The Ninth Army onslaught, in conjunction with the First Army punching its way relentlessly forward east of Aachen, was matched in the south by the unchecked drive of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army against the industrial Saar region.

A German war correspondent in a broadcast from the western Reich admitted that the Allied battering ram smashing ahead in the Aachen sector knows no stopping.

"The enemy is trying to sap our supply lines to the front by using an increasing number of fighter-bombers and fighters," the Nazi correspondent said.

Frost Aids Drive

Frost covered the Third Army front, permitting Gen. Patton, expert in mechanized warfare, to step up his cross-country movement over hardened ground.

Lower down on the front the Yank Seventh Army swept ahead southward from Strasbourg over the Alsace plain toward a junction with French First Army units, driving (Continued on Page Two)

On Saar River

WITH THE U. S. THIRD ARMY, Nov. 30.—Yanks of the Third Army smashed their hardest blows today along the 10-mile Saar river front overlooking the towns of Merzig and Saarlautern.

The Americans commanded by Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. battered their way forward from positions approximately two miles away from the two towns.

The Germans strove hard to hold the west banks of the Saar river in the battle area, hitting back heavily with artillery and mortars.

Counter-Attacks Beaten Off

When you get so mighty busy that the hours aren't enough, when demands are hot and pressing and the going's rather tough, when each minute seems to pass you like a rocket flying high, when the days and weeks go sailing and the months go speeding by, that's a time you long for leisure and a lot of fellows wish they could chuck the job and fish. For you never, never hurry when you're casting for the trout, always time to light a stogie and to toll and be about it's a resting sort of leisure, and it's really fun, but gee, there's the job that has you shackled, weather's cool and thirty-three.

The Y. W. C. A. will open another Recreation evening for the young people out of high school on Thursday, December 7 from 8 to 11:30 p. m. Swing Lobby attendance has grown so large that another night was made necessary.

Sgt. Nick Manolis Is Awarded Medal

Local Sergeant Promoted For Extraordinary Achievement In Battle Of France

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. James Manolis, of 1811 1/2 Moravia street, that their son, Sgt. Nick Manolis, has been promoted to rank of staff sergeant. He is stationed somewhere in the area of France.

According to word received the young sergeant received his promotion following extraordinary achievement in the combat field. His company was established on the top of a mountain and an order was given to descend. Sgt. Manolis did not hear the order, and as his buddies started downwards, Sgt. Manolis noticed a nest of Nazis hidden in a ledge. A hand grenade soon took care of all but six, and with his rifle he was able to put all the Nazis out of action.

For his quick thinking and action he was promoted to sergeant, and received the infantry medal during the present fighting.

Sgt. Manolis was formerly employed at the Johnson Bronze and received his training at Camp Wheeler, Ga. He has been serving overseas for five months, and with the infantry for three months. A brother, Sgt. Steve Manolis is also in France, and the two hope to meet sometime if possible. Another brother, Bill, is at home.

hotel where a joint service club luncheon will be held. At 3 o'clock a press conference will be held in the dining room of The Castleton hotel to which will be invited press representatives from Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Beaver Falls, Beaver, Ambridge, Ellwood City, New Wilmington and Grove City.

Dinner At Seven

At 7 o'clock a dinner will be held in The Castleton hotel sponsored by the United Engineering & Foundry company and the Oliver Iron & Steel company honoring the "tire power" group and a number of war industry leaders.

On Wednesday, December 6, the group will visit the Oliver Iron & Steel plant at West Pittsburgh and on Thursday will visit the plant of the United Engineering & Foundry company in New Castle.

The purpose of the visit of the front line vets here is to impress upon the workers and civilians alike the driving necessity of stepping up production of shells and artillery just now. The need is not because of a bad job done at the front but because of the amazingly good job that is being done, a job that calls for much more artillery and shells than was anticipated.

Included in the group of veterans to visit here will be Capt. William Scott, formerly of Merrill's Marauders, and the following men from the Aachen district: Sgt. Richard Vanderbloemer of DePere, Wis.; Pfc. Frank Long, Sunbury, Pa.; Pfc. Steve Janekel of Ambridge, Pa.; Stanley Palka of McKeesport and Pfc. Mal Byrnes of Philadelphia.

water. An opportunity is afforded to use our bombs under these conditions. We will exploit this—and every opportunity to put our bombs on the industrial targets which constitute the backbone of Japanese war-making capacity.

The flimsy construction of a large percentage of Tokyo's buildings long has been recognized as a factor in making the city particularly vulnerable to area attack and last night's sweep constituted the first real chance to put this premise to a test, since previous raids were designed for specific objectives.

based bombers operating from Leyte fields is of extreme significance for the reason that it indicates that the establishment of American air power on that island, long delayed by bad weather and difficult communications, is now mounting to impressive proportions.

Land based air power, operating from fields close to the front lines, is just what the doctor ordered for MacArthur's war in the Philippines because the Leyte campaign, like all of the leapfrogging campaigns of the American general's long advance from Australia, is predominantly a war of supplies.

Cut Sea Communications

"Cut the enemy's sea communications, and his garrisons will die on the vine" is the basic formula of MacArthur's sensational success in the Pacific. Several hundred thousands of Japanese soldiers are withering on the vine in Gilaons he has already passed. His present objective is to add the Leyte garrison to the withering list.

The chief tool by which Japanese forces have been isolated in MacArthur's long list of successful "leapfrogging" operations, has been the land-based bomber and fighter planes of his air force.

In the Leyte campaign the delay in establishing this American land-based airplane support was considerably greater than anticipated, due apparently to supply difficulties and the terrific storms during which more than 24 inches of rain hit the island. But now it seems, American air power has taken vigorous root in Leyte's plains and valleys and is going to work vigorously on the task of isolating Japanese forces on the island and paralyzing their fighting powers as it has done so often before.

He said improvements in civilian diet would be possible then and that more could be done to build temporary and emergency houses to care for those whose homes have been destroyed in the blitz and by the robots.

The Premier also said that with the Nazis knocked out of the war Britain also must make serious efforts to rebuild her export trade "which we deliberately gave up in the extremity of our emergency but without which we cannot live in the future."

ahead to Matzenheim, 16 miles south of Strasburg along the main road to Colmar. A junction of the Seventh and the French First armies at Colmar would seal off any Nazi forces left in the Vosges mountain region.

The sweep toward Colmar met heavy resistance from Germans attempting to hold off the Yanks while enemy troops in the Vosges drop back across the Rhine. The Germans employed anti-tank weapons against the advancing Seventh commanded by Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch.

The Ninth Army of Lieut. Gen. William H. Simpson hurled the weight of its new blow into the region west of Linbach from the Geilenkirchen-Julich sector and sent troops smashing into Beck. Spearheads gained ground in the vicinity of Lindern and seized positions dominating the Linbach-Linnich roadway.

Front reports said that the Ninth Army put down a series of German counter-attacks between Beck and Lindern, forcing the Germans to withdraw.

Beck was in flames, with the Germans reported holding positions only in the northern part of the town.

Weather Colder

Although rain still fell on the northern sectors of the front the weather was colder and the Ninth and First armies appeared to be faring better than recently.

The right wing of the Ninth army cleared the Germans out of Koeslar, a few miles west of the Nazi River supply base of Julich and scored other advances in the area. The First Army, closing to within a few miles of Duren, also a vital German supply base and only a score of miles from the Rhine, repulsed Nazi counter-attacks at Inden and Lammersdorf, north of Frenz. Fighting was said to be still in progress in both towns.

All resistance was ended in Jungersdorf and after bitter fighting Langerwehe was cleared of the Nazis.

Towns Occupied

Lower down on the First Army front the towns of Kleinau and Herten were occupied as the Yanks punched their way out of the Hurtgen forest, leaving only a small pocket of resistance in the northern part of the woods.

The Third Army pushing ahead eastward in the Saar valley was reported in dispatches from the front to have sent tanks ahead another half mile during the night.

Gen. Patton's advanced forces, leading at the Siegfried line reached a strategic height overlooking the town of Metz which lays less than two miles away.

Below Metz, the Third Army neared Jarlingen, west of Saarlautern and other units struck to the vicinity of Saar Union, in eastern France south of Saarbrücken, where they gained control of high ground.

An unconfirmed Brussels radio report said that the Third Army had captured Saar Union, some 20 miles below Saarbrücken but only a dozen miles from the Reich frontier.

Bologna highway. As the German pressure mounted, the Allied troops withdrew to prepared positions and stopped the Nazi advance.

German Luftwaffe fighters, operating singly and in small groups, supported the Nazi attack, strafing scattered points.

Mount Castellaro is nine and one-half miles southeast of Bologna in the area where the Germans have been holding desperately for weeks to halt the Fifth Army drive against the Italian city.

Indian and British armored units attached to the Fifth Army east of the central sector held the initiative which enabled them to make appreciable gains which engulfed the towns of Casola Valerbo and strategically important Mount Fortino.

NO B-29 BOMBER LOST IN LATEST RAID ON TOKYO

the first night mission flown by the Superfortresses," the communique said.

"The bombing was accomplished by precision instruments and results were not observed because of cloud coverage. Air crewmen reported that anti-aircraft fire was meagre and inaccurate. None of our aircraft was lost from enemy action."

Two Waves

The communique did not reveal the number of Superfortresses that were involved in the latest raid, but dispatches from Saipan described the attacking force as "medium."

The Japanese radio said two separate fleets of the huge B-29s had hit Tokyo, one at 11:55 p. m. Wednesday and a second at 4:15 a. m. Thursday (Japanese time).

A Japanese Imperial headquarters communique quoted by the Domei agency admitted that fires were started at "several places" during the attacks, but claimed that "most of them" were extinguished immediately.

The fires that continued to rage in part of the areas affected, however, were put under control at 5:30 a. m., the communique as recorded by the FCC said.

The enemy made no claim of any B-29s shot down.

BURTON-McMUNN, JR. EVENING CEREMONY

One of the loveliest of the winter season's weddings was solemnized in the chapel of Westminster college on Wednesday evening when Miss Dorothy Jane Burton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leroy Burton of Euclid avenue, became the bride of Lt. Harry Earl McMunn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. McMunn of Halsey place, Pittsburgh.

The candlelight ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock before an altar embankment of palms, gladiolus and large white chrysanthemums. Dr. Robert P. Galbreath, president of Westminster college, performed the double ring ceremony, and was assisted by the bride's pastor, Dr. D. L. Ferguson.

The bride wore a princess gown of white satin, train-length, with the bodice appliqued at the neck into a net yoke. Her fingertip tulle veil fell from a coronet headpiece. She carried a shower bouquet of white mums, stephanotis and snapdragons.

As her maid of honor she had her sister, Miss Ann Burton, and bridesmaids were Miss Jane McMunn of Pittsburgh, sister of the groom, and Miss Gladys Brown and Miss Jane Gardner, both former classmates of the bride at Westminster college.

The attendants wore gowns, alike of ice blue, with fitted brocade bodices and full skirts of net and matching juliet caps. They carried bouquets of mums of a delicate pink tint.

As best man the groom had Roy Martin of Ambidge, Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity brother. Ushers were Glenn McCormick, Charles Gardner, and William Anson McKee, all of New Castle.

Miss Jane Sheppard, soloist, sang "Oh Promise Me" and "Because." Organ music was played by the Westminster college instructor of organ, Ludwig Lenei.

Following the ceremony guests were received in the coral room of The Castleton and later were seated at tables for six in the ballroom, where supper was served. The ballroom was beautifully decorated with garlands of flowers and lighted candles, and white tapers lighted each table. On the bride's table was an openwork and embroidered linen banquet cloth that was used at the bride's parents' wedding and has been used by many brides since.

Harry Earl McMunn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McMunn of Halsey place, Pittsburgh.

The candlelight ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock before an altar embankment of palms, cinnabon fern and large white chrysanthemums. Dr. Robert F. Galbreath, president of Westminster college, performed the double ring ceremony and was assisted by the bride's pastor, Dr. D. L. Ferguson.

The bride wore a princess gown of white satin train-length, with the bodice appliqued at the neck into a net yoke. Her fingertip veil fell from a coronet headpiece. She carried a shower bouquet of white mums, stephanotis and snapdragons.

As her maid of honor she had her sister, Miss Ann Burton, and bridesmaids were Miss Jane McMunn of Pittsburgh, sister of the groom, and Miss Gladys Brown and Miss Jane Gardner, both former classmates of the bride at Westminster college.

The attendants wore gowns alike of ice blue with fitted brocade bodices and full skirts of net and matching Juliet caps. They carried bouquets of mums of a delicate pink tint.

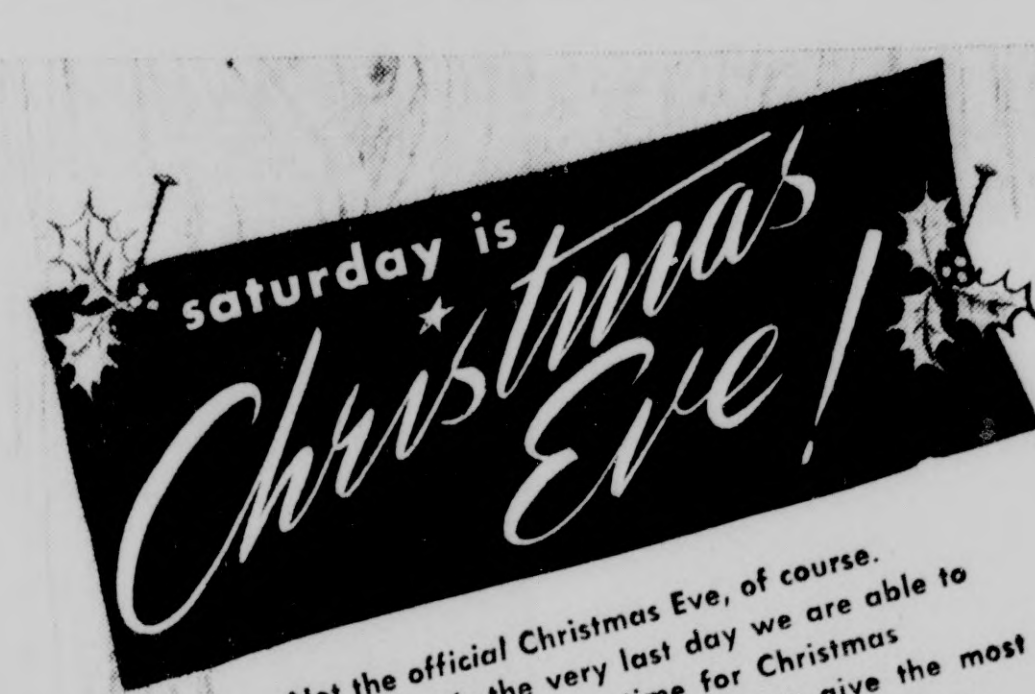

As best man the groom had Roy Martin of Ambleridge, Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity brother. Ushers were Glenn McCracken, Charles Gardner and William Anson McKee, all of New Castle.

Miss Jane Sheppard, soloist, sang "On Promise Me" and "Because." Organ music was played by the Westminster college instructor of organ, Lindley Leary.

Following the ceremony guests were received in the coral room of The Castleton and later were seated at tables for six in the ballroom where supper was served. The ballroom was beautifully decorated with greenery, flowers and lighted candelabras, and white tapers, lighted each table. On the bride's table was an openwork and embroidery linen banquet cloth that was used at the bride's parents' wedding and has been used by many brides since.

Lt. and Mrs. McMunn left in a short wedding trip. Following their return she will resume studies at Goucher college and he will report at the end of his leave to a new assignment at Westover field, Mass. He was previously stationed at Monroe, La.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Earl McMunn and Miss Jane McMunn of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Ned Coleman of Annapolis, Md.; Miss Mary Siddall of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Hope of Wilkinsburg, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Love, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan A. Black, Miss Constance Brack, Mr. and Mrs. George Louis McMunn, Mrs. John Glasdrenner, Mrs. Katherine McClure, Mrs. William R. Griffiths, James Tyson and James Tyson, Jr., all of Pittsburgh, and Roy Martin of Ambleridge.

Washington Calling

State Department Modernization Seen

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—As chairman of the American delegation to the Dumbarton Oaks conference, the newly appointed secretary of state, Edward R. Stettinius Jr., took the foreign delegations to New York as his personal guest on what he promised them would be a typical New York week-end.

All had a gay time at theatres and night clubs—particularly the Russians, for whom the lavish, luxury side of New York was a startling revelation. The party visited the Radio City Music Hall and, as distinguished guests, they were taken backstage.

Suddenly, as they confronted the famed Rockettes, Stettinius turned to the rather solemn chairman of the British delegation, Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent under-secretary of the British foreign office, and said: "Now, Alex, why don't you tell these girls something about what we're trying to do at Dumbarton Oaks."

New Approach to Job
So Sir Alexander Cadogan found himself addressing the Rockettes on foreign policy. It was some sort of new record in diplomacy, and is fairly typical of the unconventional way in which the new secretary approaches his job.

He is full of youthful enthusiasm, a desire to make good, to bring things up to date; make them modern and current. Sometimes it carries him too far, as at Dumbarton Oaks, where the setting was so impressive that it tended to magnify the importance of the conference beyond what it deserved. As the British kept repeating it was exploratory and tentative.

Since his appointment as under-secretary in 1943, he has been able to exercise his talents for modernization and improvement in only the most limited way. As under-secretary, he has been able to speed up certain routines. Some cloying red tape has been sheared away. But these changes do not go far.

When he was appointed under-secretary, the President put one injunction on him. That was to get along with Secretary of State Sumner Welles and his "resigned" under the most unpleasant circumstances after a long feud with Hull that had been fanned by jealous partisans in the State department.

Follows Instructions
Stettinius followed that injunction. Stories of a rift between the secretary and the under-secretary were false. His loyalty, however, necessitated his moving with the utmost caution. Initiative was restricted to those minor matters in which Hull had no interest.

As secretary, Stettinius has an opportunity to bring the department and the foreign service up to date—to make it a modern instrument for world order and understanding. Bold action is required, and the immediate question is how much leeway the President will allow the new man in the office.

But even if the President does continue to make his own foreign policy, as he undoubtedly will, Stettinius will still have a chance to show what he can do. His standing with Congress is good, and he should be able to get approval for a greatly expanded foreign service which would provide, for one thing, adequate compensation for the chief of missions abroad. Because of his mission abroad, because of his mission abroad.

Don't Let Them Down

By WALT DISNEY

As I write this, urging all Americans to support the Sixth War Loan, I am flushed with news of our great sea victory over the Nips in the waters adjacent to the Philippines. Nothing is more timely than this article, the times this article reaches this victory will be little more than a memory.

Other victories and costly ones, costly in blood and money, must be won before we even approach the shores of Japan. Don't be misled by stories that the Pacific war is near an end. You were misled by stories that mid-October would see victory for the Allies in Europe.

Even if the war in both spheres were to end tomorrow there are many reasons why this Sixth War Loan must have your full support. Money will be needed to take care of our disabled veterans. Millions will be needed to help the boys and girls who have been in the service since the war.

Our boys still need Superfortresses, Thunderbolts, amphibious tanks, aircraft carriers, bulldozers and every other weapon of war.

Don't let them down now. Subscribe every penny you can spare to this Sixth War Loan. Let's make 1944 the winning year.

But I say unto you, which hear: Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you, bless them that curse you, and pray for them which despitefully use you.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:29. Sun rises tomorrow 8:09.

There is only one thing harder than paying bills and that is collecting them.

More men are smoking in their homes now because their wives also smoke.

The early bird has to get his own breakfast.

The only really quiet affair in most homes is father's birthday.

TWO DIFFERENT THINGS: Giving Advice and Taking Advice.

Chairman of vice committees: "How many cigars do you smoke a day?"

Nearly-groomed smoker: "About ten."

"What do they cost you?"

"Twenty cents apiece."

"My, that's two dollars a day. How long have you been smoking?"

"Thirty years."

"Two dollars a day for thirty years is a lot of money."

"Yes, it is."

"Do you see that fine office building on the corner?"

"Yes."

"If you had never smoked in your life, you might own that fine building."

"Do you smoke?"

"No, never did."

"Do you own that building?"

"No."

"Well," said the well-groomed smoker as he walked away, "I do."

It takes two to make a quarrel but one gets the blame.

Love may be blind, but the neighbors aren't.

A decided blonde is a girl who decides to dye her hair.

Buying War Bonds will help win the war. Buy all of them you can. They are the best investment in the world.

An honest man has intellectual balance if he can now recall everything he said during the campaign and not feel ashamed.

When a young man tells ten feet away from a girl and tells her that she is his first and only love she can bank on his veracity.

To know what I must do and do it cheerfully and promptly.

To keep on plugging away until the job is done.

Not to seek praise so much as to ask: Have I helped?

To tackle a new job with renewed vigor when what I have to do is completed.

To smile and take the breaks.

When a man has the reputation of being plain spoken it is a mild way of saying it that he never sees anything good to speak of in others.

You can fool all of the people some of the time and the remainder of the time they're disappointed.

"Then there was" a man who couldn't speak English so they gave him a job of calling trains.

What a world! All the guys who badly need licking are so big and tough nobody can do it.

There is nothing new. Our grandparents are talking about dancing with a girl with a hole in her stocking.

Even if the war in both spheres were to end tomorrow there are many reasons why this Sixth War Loan must have your full support.

Money will be needed to take care of our disabled veterans. Millions will be needed to help the boys and girls who have been in the service since the war.

Our boys still need Superfortresses, Thunderbolts, amphibious tanks, aircraft carriers, bulldozers and every other weapon of war.

Don't let them down now. Subscribe every penny you can spare to this Sixth War Loan. Let's make 1944 the winning year.

A German woman's complaint at Aachen gave a nice illustration of German mentality. Said she: "If the British had only given up in 1940, we'd have peace now."

What a world! The selfish and inconsiderate, who should be despised, are respected because they have so much—taken from the selfish.

Questions I have been corresponding with a boy in the service. He is planning to come and see me. We have never met but were introduced through correspondence by a mutual friend. May I correctly invite him to spend the night at my home or must he go to a hotel? Peggy.

Answer: You may invite him to spend the night at your house, if responsible relatives and will be properly chaperoned.

THE avowed purpose of the "liberal" and labor elements now that they have an Administration more heavily obligated to them than any preceding one is to thrust policies, serves more deeply into politics. There has been as yet no outward signs of this, but the private conferences that are occurring among the "liberals," the labor leaders and the New Dealers are significant and important. These are the groups which are going to fix the direction and supply the impetus for this Administration. These are the groups which sparked the campaign, made the fight, bore the brunt of the attack and—so—now claim and demand the vote.

Now that the elections have been won, they regard it as their mandate and are eager to accept it.

THEY NO longer refer to it as "the New Deal"; they like to call it "the new spirit" and to believe that the coming four years will show greater "progress" along "liberal lines" than the 12 years just past. And the key note of the "new spirit" is aggressiveness. That is the "new spirit" must be aggressive—even to the point of "robbing" the "old guard" of Roosevelt himself. The idea, quite often privately expressed by the advanced thinkers, is to "build a fire under the President."

To make him "more liberal" is to keep constantly "prodding" him so as to check any tendency through inertia or for any other reason, to lapse toward conservatism.

TO THIS end, the drive against the conservative Democrats in the official family is to be continued and enhanced. The resignation of Mr. Hull, because of his health, is a cause of great rejoicing among these groups as otherwise they would have no chance at all of getting him out. The appointment of Mr. Stettinius, strongly urged by Mr. Harry Hopkins, is far more acceptable to them than would have been that of Mr. Byrnes, not that the former is exactly a "true liberal" in their sense, or the latter a "greedy reactionary," but Mr. Byrnes is a Senator, Senator George and other regular Democrats of the old school. If this is to be the kind of Administration the "new spirit" has determined it, shall be, there is no place in it for the Byrneses, the Joneses and the Baruches. That is the way they argue.

Americanism: Denying sufficient paper to long established publications, allowing hundreds of tons of new books that are 90 per cent dirt.

A grizzly bear attacked a Canadian who felled him with one bullet. The Canadian was an army flyer. It seems the bear didn't know there was a war on.

IMPORTANCE OF SELF-CONTROL

Recently I heard two women discussing a third. One said: "My very fond of Miriam. She's always the same. She has wonderful pulse and self-control."

I immediately thought I'd like to meet Miriam. She must be wonderful to have two other women give her such high praise.

Perhaps occasionally you have met people who are "always the same." I have met them only infrequently and believe me they are a pleasure to know. Pulse and self-control. If you have these two assets, your popularity is almost assured. You can maintain your dignity, keep your friends and your temper.

Practice using self-control. When next someone "cags" you on in an argument, put on the brakes by replying: "Do you think so?" rather than "I beg to differ."

People who are argumentative invariably lose their dignity. A little self-control prevents many needless arguments. It increases your respectability and makes those who lose their self-control feel foolish.

The famous Lady Mendl said her motto always advised her: "Be pretty, if you can be witty. If you must, but be agreeable even if it kills you." That's pretty good advice. Try it.

Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

"The New Spirit"

Now Holds Reins

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—LAST YEAR, Mr. Francis Biddle, our exuberant Attorney General, in an emotional moment before a group of "true liberals" described the New Deal as "a political party tied up with the labor movement under an able political leader." The situation here since the election seems to bear out Mr. Biddle's idea.

CERTAINLY, the politically important groups in the fourth Adams administration are the extreme New Dealers of Mr. Biddle's type, and the CIO labor leaders. So far as Government policies and actions are concerned they are in the dominant position. So far as political strategy is concerned they clearly intend to call the tunes. Anyone who doubts this need only recall Mr. Biddle's exhortation to his friends to "hold the political trench," the recent action of the CIO convention in making the Hillman PAC a permanent institution and ordering its expansion in various directions.

THE avowed purpose of the "liberal" and labor elements now that they have an Administration more heavily obligated to them than any preceding one is to thrust policies, serves more deeply into politics. There has been as yet no outward signs of this, but the private conferences that are occurring among the "liberals," the labor leaders and the New Dealers are significant and important. There has been as yet no outward signs of this, but the private conferences that are occurring among the "liberals," the labor leaders and the New Dealers are significant and important. These are the groups which are going to fix the direction and supply the impetus for this Administration. These are the groups which sparked the campaign, made the fight, bore the brunt of the attack and—so—now claim and demand the vote.

Now that the elections have been won, they regard it as their mandate and are eager to accept it.

THEY NO longer refer to it as "the New Deal"; they like to call it "the new spirit" and to believe that the coming four years will show greater "progress" along "liberal lines" than the 12 years just past. And the key note of the "new spirit" is aggressiveness. That is the "new spirit" must be aggressive—even to the point of "robbing" the "old guard" of Roosevelt himself. The idea, quite often privately expressed by the advanced thinkers, is to "build a fire under the President."

To make him "more liberal" is to keep constantly "prodding" him so as to check any tendency through inertia or for any other reason, to lapse toward conservatism.

TO THIS end, the drive against the conservative Democrats in the official family is to be continued and enhanced. The resignation of Mr. Hull, because of his health, is a cause of great rejoicing among these groups as otherwise they would have no chance at all of getting him out. The appointment of Mr. Stettinius, strongly urged by Mr. Harry Hopkins, is far more acceptable to them than would have been that of Mr. Byrnes, not that the former is exactly a "true liberal" in their sense, or the latter a "greedy reactionary," but Mr. Byrnes is a Senator, Senator George and other regular Democrats of the old school. If this is to be the kind of Administration the "new spirit" has determined it, shall be, there is no place in it for the Byrneses, the Joneses and the Baruches. That is the way they argue.

Americanism: Denying sufficient paper to long established publications, allowing hundreds of tons of new books that are 90 per cent dirt.

IMPORTANCE OF SELF-CONTROL

Recently I heard two women discussing a third. One said: "My very fond of Miriam. She's always the same. She has wonderful pulse and self-control."

I immediately thought I'd like to meet Miriam. She must be wonderful to have two other women give her such high praise.

Perhaps occasionally you have met people who are "always the same." I have met them only infrequently and believe me they are a pleasure to know. Pulse and self-control. If you have these two assets, your popularity is almost assured. You can maintain your dignity, keep your friends and your temper.

Practice using self-control. When next someone "cags" you on in an argument, put on the brakes by replying: "Do you think so?" rather than "I beg to differ."

People who are argumentative invariably lose their dignity. A little self-control prevents many needless arguments. It increases your respectability and makes those who lose their self-control feel foolish.

The famous Lady Mendl said her motto always advised her: "Be pretty, if you can be witty. If you must, but be agreeable even if it kills you." That's pretty good advice. Try it.

Questions I have been corresponding with a boy in the service. He is planning to come and see me. We have never met but were introduced through correspondence by a mutual friend. May I correctly invite him to spend the night at my home or must he go to a hotel? Peggy.

Answer: You may invite him to spend the night at your house, if responsible relatives and will be properly chaperoned.

Washington Report

Washington Was Madhouse In Civil War Days
New Book Reveals Golden Side Of The Capital
One Who Knows Nazis Speaks Of Coming Events

By HELEN ESBARY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—You who complain today about Washington the Madhouse, read this paragraph about Washington during the Civil War from a book of the day.

"The fields around Washington resounded with the words of command, the tramp of men and flashed with whirling arms. Long trains of covered wagons filled up the open spaces in the suburbs. Pennsylvania avenue was red, white and blue with flags and thick with dust from galloping chargers and commissariat carts. The shops were filled with people, a large number of whom carried sword or bayonet."

I understand that many a sword or bayonet is carried in the intriguing tongue and sly glance of today's capital. But as I told a young and about-to-be-disillusioned newcomer, "Pay no attention to the plotters, and the rapier thrusts. If you are to survive in Washington, here's sound advice: Stay as glib as you are. Don't let a scheme ever change you."

New Washington Tome
Now, on the subject of Vera Bloom's book "There's No Place Like Washington," another speculation: Here's a sweeping success! Here's a volume that will outsell all other books about Washington.

For not only is "There's No Place Like Washington" readable and entertaining, it gives a picture of Washington as people like to think Washington is. No hint here of ugly, intriguing Washington. No hint of disappointments. No snubbing. Nor cruelty.

But a Washington that is forever romantic and wise. Where, every night in the week you sit beside an ambassador, a beautiful husband, a beautiful wife, and eat exquisite food and drink rare vintage from priceless china and crystal to the accompaniment of sparkling wit and international love and affection.

Miss Bloom, who is the daughter of Representative Sol Bloom of New York, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the House, has turned out a truly readable book.

I read it through without stopping in one evening and wasn't bothered by a paragraph, whether from a reprobate or a female, who tries to write about Washington herself. I praise indeed.

Speaks About Danger

One of the problems of dealing with the postwar Germans, Robert Murphy, civilian advisor to General Dwight Eisenhower, suggests the danger of spreading Nazism in countries which might use Nazi workers to help build up the ravaged countries. It might be possible, too, for a big group of Nazi workers to play Russia, England and the United States one against the other, with very bad effects on international harmony, says Mr. Murphy.

Lehman's organization, there have been evidences of dissatisfaction with our efforts on behalf of the people of liberated Italy and France. In Italy criticism has been open and in some cases bitter because we have not fulfilled our Santa Claus role to the exact satisfaction of the beneficiaries.

The work of the UNRRA since its organization will be covered in a report soon to be made by Governor Lehman. Indications are that his report will not be exactly encouraging, owing to the lack of co-operation, thus far experienced, on the part of the other nations. It is possible that we may be over-estimating the appreciation of war-ridden peoples for our high intentions.

The complaints and dissatisfactions voiced in England, France and Italy show how little appreciation our Allies now show and will forever show for the aid and assistance given by this nation in men, money and material for the aid and assistance of European nations devastated by Germany. And it ought to be a warning to this nation to tread very softly in its participation in world affairs after peace has been declared—but to carry a Big Stick.

your child to learn later not to touch matches.

You have several coins in your purse or pocket. The tot of two can gain a deal of amusement playing with them, so you let him have three, four or five with coins left lying about the house. Yet you have ahead of you the problem of teaching this child the proper use of money. It is so easy then for the child to take money and even to spend it without his realizing he is beginning to steal. You let the baby handle a book you don't care about as he likes. This experience makes it harder for him to learn later to handle a valuable book carefully. Don't allow the baby to use as a plaything what he must be forbidden to use later.

Our first four children were taught early not to touch matches and they learned this forbidding easily and never troubled us over matches. The third child we treated according to the usual "modern advice." We let him strike a match to light the fire or my pipe as early as he was able to do so. He is the only one of our children who ever built a fire chandestinely, though we were able to nip this problem in the bud.

It is not enough to try to keep the matches out of the young child's reach. He also needs to learn that he must never touch them when found in his reach. Use spanking to do this teaching.

Congressional friends of War Mobilizer James P. Byrnes are deeply disappointed, especially since this comes on top of the shabby treatment Byrnes received at the Democratic convention in Chicago. But Byrnes would have had to pick up the threads of a complicated office, which takes time. Stettinius had the advantage of nearly 15 months in the job, much of that period as acting secretary.

That is little enough. While his experience as lend-lease administrator will help, too, Stettinius is certain to find himself handicapped by lack of background. He will have to try to make up for it by his earnest enthusiasm and his good will.

A Prayer

Across the world the sound of shells has ceased . . .
And quiet shrouds the battle-rubbed West . . .
The enemy has laid away his arms, and Death and Pain are done in France.
But I go on . . . for I must fight and kill . . .
And work and sweat . . . and hide and run . . .
For here the enemy is very much alive . . .
His bullets still are made of lead . . .
Their angry whispers still foretell of sudden death
For me and others crouched in slime and mud . . .
The end for us is yet to come . . .
And so we pray to God to give us strength
To fight and win . . . without the waste of Time . . .
And with His Will . . . to see our homes again.

Soldier Arrives Home With Baby

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—Pfc. Arthur E. Whitehouse, home today on a special 32-day furlough, still hoped his wife would forgive him and become foster mother of a baby girl borne him by a Newfoundland nurse.

After Whitehouse arrived home yesterday with the baby, Geraldine Mary, his wife, Rose, whom he married nine years ago, secluded herself at the home of a brother who said he doubted if she would go back to live with Whitehouse. Meanwhile the soldier and Geraldine Mary are staying at his mother's home.

Earlier yesterday, two persons were injured when a similar accident occurred on the southside. The accidents were the second and third in which one street car rammed into another since seven persons died as a result of a rear-end crash in murky fog in Munhall, November 14.

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

World-Wide Christian Fellowship

The Golden Text

Christ of the Andes.

"Neither for these only do I pray, but for them also that believe on Me through their word; that they may all be one."—John 17:20, 21.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 2 is John 17:18-23; I Cor. 12:13-14.)

II Cor. 12:19. "Neither for these only do I pray, but for them also that believe on Me through their word; that they may all be one."

On the night before His death, just before He went to Gethsemane, Jesus prayed that "As Thou didst send Me into the world, even so I send them (the apostles) into the world. And for their sakes I sanctify Myself, that they themselves also may be sanctified in truth."

"Neither for these only do I pray, but for them also that believe on Me through their word; that they may all be one, even as Thou, Father, art in Me, and I in Thee; that they also may be in us; that the world may believe that Thou didst send Me."

Jesus always lived a completely sanctified life while He was on earth, but this night, the last of His life here, His sanctifying seemed to be His free surrender of Himself over to the Father's will unto death, as one commentator puts it.

By so sanctifying Himself, He hoped that His disciples, whom He had chosen to carry on His work, might feel themselves "sanctified in truth."

Paul greets Corinthians.

Paul wrote to the church he had founded in Corinth, "to them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, with all that in every place call upon the name of Jesus Christ our Lord, both theirs and ours."

The church at Corinth was one of the most famous in the Roman world, founded by Paul on his second missionary journey. Paul's words indicate a unity that bound together believers everywhere. These men of Corinth were "called to be saints," because they were divinely called from without as well as consecrated by their inward conversion to Christianity.

In the 12th chapter of Corinthians, Paul speaks of the diversity of gifts of those who minister in the Christian church. Some have the gift of wisdom, some have knowledge, another may be able to work miracles (or could in those days), but in all the gifts listed by Paul, none in all, worketh that one and the selfsame spirit, dividing to every man severally as he will.

For as the body is one, and hath many members, and all the members of that one body, being many, are one body, so also is Christ.

There are many diversities of opinion, strictly on theology in the Christian church, but if the Spirit of Christ works through all, if all are united in His Spirit, trying each in his poor way to follow Him, all really are one. One man may be an eloquent speaker, preaching the word of God with power; another may not be so good as a preacher, but he will have the power to touch hearts because of his great wisdom, or his ministry to those who need him. Just as our hands, our feet, our heads, hearts, etc., are all part of our earthly bodies, each having its special task to perform, so each of these men adds his gifts to make a perfect, working whole in the churches of Christ.

Different Lives, One Spirit.

Each child in a Sunday school is an individual, coming from a different home than all the others, living under different circumstances. But when all meet in their church school, study the same lesson, and each does his best to live so that the school spirit is manifested to the world generally, to those inside the school and those on the outside, these members of the school are one in spirit, are they not?

In the eighth chapter of the second letter from Paul to the Corinthians, he is begging for financial help for the poorer brethren in Jerusalem, from the Corinthian Christians, who were Gentiles. "We do not know why the church members in Jerusalem were particularly in need of help at this time, but Paul may have thought that if these Gentile members of the church sent liberal aid to them, it would silence those who still believe that Gentiles should not be admitted to the church. He was the apostle of the Gentiles, you remember. At any rate, Paul pleads with the Corinthians to give generously. "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor, that ye through His poverty might be rich."

Tusks are produced on both sexes of the African elephant, but they seldom occur on the females of the Asiatic or Indian species.

Let's Not Forget that EYES ARE PRECIOUS!

WE are quite rightly concerned with saving paper, and tires, and gasoline and grease and other essentials of wartime.

But let's not overlook another national resource—GOOD EYESIGHT.

In the midst of war, we are so apt to forget the precautions we used to take against eyestrain. For the sake of your own comfort—and your children's eyes—won't you remember these four important rules for eyesight conservation.

1 Do all reading, studying, sewing, or game-playing close to a good light source, preferably a modern reading lamp.

2 Avoid glare from bare bulbs. Don't sit facing the light. Glare strains eyes.

3 Avoid shadows. Make sure you have good light directly on your book or work. Shadows strain eyes.

4 Have eyes examined regularly. If eyes are defective, vision can be greatly helped with proper glasses.

When the war is over we are all going to have Better Light for Better Sight. In the meantime, let's conserve both eyesight and light. Take care of your eyes, but don't waste light.

Soldier Arrives Home With Baby

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—Pfc. Arthur E. Whitehouse, home today on a special 32-day furlough, still hoped his wife would forgive him and become foster mother of a baby girl borne him by a New-foundland nurse.

After Whitehouse arrived home yesterday with the baby, Geraldine Mary, his wife, Rose, whom he married nine years ago, secluded herself at the home of a brother who said he doubted if she would go back to live with Whitehouse.

Meanwhile the soldier and Geraldine Mary are staying at his mother's home.

Eleven Hurt In Street Car Crash

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—Eleven persons today were in Pittsburgh hospitals seriously injured when an old-type trolley, whose motorman told detectives he had "blacked out," crashed into the rear of another street car that had stopped to discharge passengers in northside Pittsburgh last night.

Earlier yesterday two persons were injured when a similar accident occurred on the southside. The accidents were the second and third in which one street car rammed into another since seven persons died as a result of a rear-end crash in murky fog in Munhall, November 14.

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson World-Wide Christian Fellowship

The Golden Text

Christ of the Andes.

"Neither for these only do I pray, but for them also that believe on Me through their word; that they may all be one."—John 17:20, 21.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 3 is John 17:18-23; 1 Cor. 1:1-3; 12:4-14; John 17:20, 21. The Golden Text being John 17:20, 21. "Neither for these only do I pray, but for them also that believe on Me through their word; that they may all be one.")

On the night before His death, just before He went to Gethsemane, Jesus prayed that "As Thou didst send Me into the world, even so I send them" (the apostles) into the world. And for their sakes I sanctify Myself, that they themselves also may be sanctified in truth.

"Neither for these only do I pray, but for them also that believe on Me through their word; that they may all be one, even as Thou, Father, art in Me, and I in Thee, that they also may be in us; that the world may believe that Thou didst send Me."

Jesus always lived a completely sanctified life while He was on earth, but this night, the last of His life here, His sanctifying seemed to be "His free surrender of Himself over to the Father's will unto death," as one commentator puts it.

By so sanctifying Himself He hoped that His disciples, whom He had chosen to carry on His work, might feel themselves "sanctified in truth."

Paul Greets Corinthians
Paul wrote to the church he had founded in Corinth, "to them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, with all that in every place call upon the name of Jesus Christ our Lord, both theirs and ours."

The church at Corinth was one of the most famous in the Roman world, founded by Paul on his second missionary journey. Paul's words indicate a unity that bound together believers everywhere. These men of Corinth were "called to be saints," because they were divinely called from without as well as consecrated by their inward conversion to Christianity.

In the 12th chapter of Corinthians, Paul speaks of the diversity of gifts of those who minister in the Christian church. Some have the gift of wisdom; some have knowledge, another may be able to work miracles (or could in those days), but in all the gifts listed by Paul, there is in all, "worketh that one and the selfsame spirit, dividing to every man severally as he will."

"For as the body is one, and hath

many members, and all the members of that one body, being many, are one body, so also is Christ."

There are many diversities of opinion strictly on theology in the Christian church, but if the Spirit of Christ works through all, if all are united in His Spirit, trying each in his poor way to follow Him, all really are one. One man may be an eloquent speaker, preaching the word of God with power; another may not be so good as a preacher, but he will have the power to touch hearts because of his great wisdom, or his ministry to those who need him. Just as our hands, our feet, our heads, hearts, etc., are all part of our earthly bodies, each having its special task to perform, so each of these men adds his gifts to make a perfect, working whole in the churches of Christ.

Different Lives, One Spirit

Each child in a Sunday school is an individual, coming from a different home than all the others, living under different circumstances. But when all meet in their church school, study the same lesson and each does his best to live so that the school spirit is manifested to the world generally, to those inside the school and those on the outside, these members of the school are one in spirit, are they not?

In the eighth chapter of the second letter from Paul to the Corinthians he is begging for financial help for the poorer brethren in Jerusalem, from the Corinthian Christians, who were Gentiles. We do not know why the church members in Jerusalem were particularly in need of help at this time, but Paul may have thought that if these Gentile members of the church sent liberal aid to them, it would silence those who still believe that Gentiles should not be admitted to the church. He was the apostle of the Gentiles, you remember.

At any rate, Paul pleads with the Corinthians to give generously. "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor, that ye through His poverty might be rich."

Tusks are produced on both sexes of the African elephant, but they seldom occur on the females of the Asiatic or Indian species.

Pvt. Dale Haswell Gives Up 'Cushy' Job In Anti-Aircraft To Fight From Foxhole In Germany

In a delayed dispatch from Durboslar, Germany, a combat correspondent at the front reveals how Pvt. Dale Haswell, of Ellwood City, was one of three men who gave up a "cushy" assignment in the anti-aircraft fifty miles back of the front, and traded comfortable hotel beds for muddy freezing foxholes.

The other two were Lawrence A. Donohue, Jr., of Philadelphia and Robert L. Cassidy, of Mt. Savage, Md.

"What I like," Haswell said, "is the swell bunch of guys you find around here. Back there, they were too fussy."

The movement to get to the front by armchair soldiers started several weeks ago, when some non-combat buck private wrote to the Paris edition of Stars and Stripes saying he was tired of being a "4 in a 4-F outfit" and wanted transferred to combat duty.

"If we had more men like this, we'd win the war a whole lot sooner," commented Major Victor Gillespie, of Centerville, Md., referring to Haswell and his two pals. "They came through 100 per cent in their baptism of fire."

Sartorial Club Talks Of Tailoring

At the regular meeting of the Sartorial club, held Tuesday evening, at the home of Louis Gaspare of 902 Cunningham avenue, an interesting discussion of tailoring and arts was conducted by the members.

Card playing was a later pastime by the group and afterwards a delicious dinner was served by Mrs. Lena Gaspare.

December 28 is the meeting with Ettore Tranquillo in his new home, 721 Cunningham avenue.

SOLDIER COUSINS MEET IN FRANCE

Peter Nativo, of Clearview avenue, has received word from his son, Private Charles Nativo, that he recently met his cousin, Pvt. Samuel DiLillo, of the Medical Corps, and had a splendid visit together. They had not seen each other for eighteen months. The latter is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DiLillo, of East Division. Both soldiers have been overseas about six months.

Talking Pictures Reveal How Nation's Industry Is Looking Ahead To Future

How industry is looking forward to the days following the war in an effort to keep business stepped up to provide jobs for everyone after war industries are closed up was shown in a talking picture entitled "America's Secret Weapon" at the noon luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club in The Castleton Wednesday noon.

Industry is endeavoring to create new articles which will be in demand, and to map out a great advertising and sales plan to keep business moving ahead.

Following the showing of the picture, Numa Vidal of the Pennsylvania Power company, told what the committee on economic development is doing, both nationally and locally, to follow up this idea.

Guests of the club from Deshon Annex included Privates Donald Burby, a Michigan boy, who is recovering from injuries received in training camp; and Andy Hrycko of Cannonsburg, Pa., wounded in Italy.

How much oil is extracted from a single whale? The Encyclopedia Britannica says it is an average of 17,500 gallons. A 30-foot whale also will supply 2½ tons of meat.

Veterans Plead For More Shells

District Soldiers Back From European Front Plead For 'Fire Power For Eisenhower'

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 30.—(INS)—American artillery crews are rationed on the number of shells they can fire at the enemy in Europe. It was asserted today by Pfc. Stanley Palka, 27, of McKeesport, who has seen three years of overseas service, "Our rations were 80 rounds a day. When we had fired our 80 rounds, we had to quit. We could have used 200 rounds a day—and sometimes more than that."

Save More Lives
"The more shells you throw at the enemy, the faster your infantry can advance. The faster the infantry advances, the more lives you save. That's why we need shells."

Palka was accompanied by Pfc. Stephen Janicki, 25, of Ambridge, whose two and one-half years overseas included action in Africa, Sicily, France and Germany.

Janicki, a member of an 81 MM. mortar squad, said Eisenhower's munitions breakthrough at St. Lo, France, and still exists. He said his squad, at times, was limited to firing as few as 10 shells a day.

"We could have used 100 times that many," he added. "The Germans hate mortar fire. It demoralizes them. The more you throw at them the more it helps."

Nocera Dishes Out Pie In Front Lines

Local Soldier Helped Keep Up Morale Of Boys At Aachen By Providing Good Food

In a clipping sent to Ralph B. Hayes, of 137 East Wallace avenue, by his daughter, Lt. Dorothy M. Hayes, from Somewhere in France, taken from Stars and Stripes, some of the difficulties and pleasures experienced by the American infantrymen at Aachen are revealed.

The story tells how the doughboys were lined up for lunch before a kitchen truck in a courtyard only 300 yards from where machine-gun fire was plunging away at the Americans, but Sgt. Chester Perry, of Mississippi was dishing out big slabs of roast beef, while Pfc. Alec Nocera, of this city, loaded the mess kits with big chunks of peach pie.

While roast beef and pie aren't on every day's menu, hot food is always available, the G. I. correspondent relates, and every effort is made to serve hot breakfast and supper, while lunch usually consists of K-rations.

"I'd rather do that than be absent from my job," Knis commented.

Site Is Secured For Future Fire Department Home

A deed transfer has been made by W. F. Moody to Neshannock Volunteer Firemen, of a lot 50 by 150 near the end of Highland avenue near Fairview school. It is located at the corner of Fairfield avenue in Neshannock Township.

Certain restrictions accompany the transfer however, not permitting the erection of any service buildings on the site until after 1951.

Volunteer Firemen of Neshannock Township have proven a progressive and expanding organization since it was formed. They hope to in due time erect a building to accommodate their entire equipment, and a recreation and meeting hall for their activities and also those of the Women's Auxiliary. The organization also owns another lot next to Walmo school which will also be used for needed structures.

Halsey's Flagship Travels
Over 36,000 Miles In Recent Engagements

LOSSES INFLICTED OF JAPS ARE HUGE

By PHILIP G. REED
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

ABOARD ADMIRAL HALSEY'S FLAGSHIP, Western Pacific, Nov. 27—(Via Navy Radio)—(Delayed)—It was officially revealed tonight that this flagship, has steamed 36,185 miles, nearly equal to one and one-half trips around the world. In spearheading the unprecedented 90-day campaign by the third U.S. fleet against the Japanese from Okinawa, in the Ryukyus, to the southern Philippines.

It was estimated that a naval and air combat engaged in by the fleet, a total of 3,446 Jap planes were bagged, of which 1,564 were shot down and 1,782 destroyed on the ground, in attacks on 112 Jap airfields and in fighting over vast sea areas.

Recapitulated Japanese shipping losses at the hands of this fleet are almost fabulous.

Heavy Jap Losses

A total of 440 enemy vessels of all types have been sunk, of which 58 were warships. Twenty-three were tankers, 114 were merchantmen, of over 1,000 tons; 100 were merchantmen under 1,000 tons and 141 were listed as tugs and smaller craft.

Among the warships sunk were four aircraft carriers, three heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, 25 destroyers and destroyer escorts, two seaplane tenders and 22 smaller fighting craft of undetermined types.

An even greater number of Japanese ships were damaged, some of which possibly sunk.

An aggregate of 669 auxiliaries and various merchantmen were hurt to some extent, while 102 warships, including nine battleships, were hit but not severely damaged.

Broken down, the statistics show 56 Jap tankers damaged, 263 merchantmen over 1,000 tons damaged, 115 under 1,000 tons damaged and 267 smaller craft damaged.

Big Ships Damaged

Besides the battlewagons the Jap warships damaged included five to seven heavy cruisers, eight light cruisers, 46 destroyers and destroyer escorts, three minelayers and 29 smaller surface craft.

The statistical figures cover all of the fleet's actions, including the big battle of the Philippines in late October, from embarkation to the day before yesterday's sweep over Luzon, the latest in a series of strikes supporting General MacArthur's Leyte campaign.

I witnessed that onslaught from the deck of a light carrier near this flagship to which I transferred at sea a day prior.

The Japs, stung by repeated attacks that have repeatedly blasted their aerial and naval reinforcements, headed towards embattled Leyte, struck back furiously with one of the most determined counter blows I have ever seen in the Pacific.

It was brief but hot. Dive bombers and torpedo planes were coordinated in simultaneous strikes from high and low levels.

For 40 minutes the air was blotted with flak.

One Jap dive bomber was blown to bits only a few hundred feet from a heavy carrier. One wingtip flamed brightly and lit on the ship's deck. It was quickly extinguished.

In the excitement two bombs from another Jap plane splashed almost unheeded in a couple hundred yards of our ship.

Planes were visible almost to the horizon.

Then it was over almost as suddenly as it began.

The task force steamed ahead as if nothing but a tropical storm had struck.

LEAFY HAYS GOOD FEED FOR POULTRY

Good quality leafy hays, because of their high value in proteins, minerals and vitamins, produce gratifying results when fed to poultry. The variable feed situation has given added importance to the use of this type of feed.

Because it contains vitamin A, well-cured hay has gained significance as a poultry feed owing to the alfalfa meal situation, the shortage of vitamin A fish oils, and the fact that poultry feed mixtures contain relatively little corn.

Farmers have learned how other grains could replace corn so long as vitamin A, which other cereals lack, was supplied some other way. Home grown hays have filled this vital need. The second and third cuttings of alfalfa have been found to be better than the first as a poultry feed, and second-growth clover also can be used. The hay also supplies roughage and keeps the hens busy picking at something, thus lessening any tendency toward cannibalism.

COURSES AVAILABLE BY CORRESPONDENCE

Correspondence courses in agriculture and home economics again are available to persons in Lawrence county.

The courses are offered by the Pennsylvania State college and embrace six groups of studies covering 18 different subjects. The college has been offering correspondence courses since 1899 and since then over 10,000 students have been enrolled for this work. Of this number, more than 5,000 were enrolled during the past year.

The courses embrace general agriculture, animal industry, horticulture, dairying, economics, and a group of miscellaneous topics. Students may enroll at any time. Blank enrollment forms are available at the Agricultural Extension office, 205 Post Office building, New Castle.

Students who have been enrolled in the correspondence courses often have opportunity to make immediate use of the knowledge or information obtained, without waiting a year or more, as resident students often must do, before putting their knowledge into practice. Students can take the work without leaving home and with no interference to regular occupations.

MEND COAT NOW FOR COMING COLD WEATHER

If your winter coat needs mending or shortening, do it now before cold weather comes.

The lining at the neck and armholes usually shows signs of wear but it can be mended neatly without much trouble. Select material that matches as nearly as possible the original lining. For the neck, cut a curved piece the shape of the neckline and wide enough to cover the worn place. Turn under seam allowances and press. Clip the seam at the neckline so it will be smooth. Pin the patch in place and slip stitch smoothly to the lining.

To mend underarm worn places, cut shield-shaped pieces of matching material and apply them in the same way as you did at the neck.

For a coat that needs to be shortened or lengthened, first rip out the old hem, then mark the coat for the new length. Baste in the new hem and if it is more than two inches wide, trim it off to this length. Instead of turning under the raw edge of the material for the hem, stitch one side of seam binding to the edge of the coat material and hem the other edge of the binding to the coat.

Usually lining and coat are hemmed separately and laced together at seam lines only. The lining is about an inch shorter than the coat. Having the lining hemmed separately from the coat does away with the possibility of the lining drawing up the lower edge of the coat.

To measure the lining length, turn the coat wrong side out and put on a hanger or dress form. Mark

DUSTING AND CLEANING KEEPS FURNITURE SMOOTH
Furniture needs constant attention to keep it smooth. Regular dusting not only removes the dirt but the light rubbing adds a delicate glow that becomes richer as the years go by.

Soft, lintless materials are excellent for dusting. To make dustless dusters at home, put two or three tablespoons of furniture polish into a glass jar or tin can, shake well to coat the inside of the container, then pour the excess oil into the original bottle. Put soft-clean cloths into the can, cover tightly, and allow to stand overnight. The dusters must be in closed tin or glass containers to avoid danger of fire from spontaneous combustion.

Dusters may be washed but must be treated after each washing.

Furniture of wood needs an occasional cleaning and washing is one of the best ways to do it. For varnished wood make a solution of one quart of hot water, three tablespoons of boiled linseed oil and one tablespoon of turpentine. While solution is still warm, wash a small section of wood with a cloth wrung from solution, wipe wood dry and polish with a dry cloth. Repeat until entire surface of wood has been cleaned. The solution may be kept warm by setting the container in hot water. Keep away from fire.

Painted and enameled woods may be washed with a soap jelly made of pure white soap. Put a small amount of jelly on a damp cloth, rub the wood gently until there is a circle of froth. Wipe off quickly with a clean cloth wrung out of warm water and rub with a dry cloth. If wood is badly soiled, add a little whitening paste to the soap jelly. An occasional oil bath is suggested for varnished and oiled woods. Use a mixture of two-thirds boiled linseed oil and one-third turpentine. Apply with a soft cloth and rub off excess with a clean cloth.

Rub with the grain of the wood until well dry. You may use furniture polish, but it must be rubbed well.

An Army Ordnance jeep and trailer can be converted into an ambulance which is capable of carrying three litter patients, two assistants and a driver. The jeep ambulance may be maneuvered over all kinds of terrain in combat areas.

Woman Reporter Delves Into Wartime Politeness

What has the war done to the politeness of the average male in New Castle? Well, as far as can be accurately determined in one afternoon, not too much. Men still have a certain amount of courtesy, although it must be admitted that they don't force it on anyone.

Take this matter of opening doors, for example. Five times out of six, when a girl reporter who was just "trying to find out" entered downtown stores, men standing near the door opened it for her. The sixth time, the man just stood and waited for her to open it herself.

They Let Women On First
On buses, the men just getting home from work naturally grab for the nearest seats after they get on, but usually they stand back and allow the women to get on the buses first. And even after everyone is on the very young ones stand up once in a while to give an older woman a seat. In fact men are still much quicker to give up their seats to older persons than young girls are.

Other little traditional courtesies were also in evidence along Washington street yesterday afternoon. Every man who was walking with a woman was on the outside, next to the street, either from accident or on purpose. Four of the couples had small babies with them; and it was the men, not the women, who were carrying them.

She Carried the Bundles
In another case, however, the woman was burdened down with what looked like two large blankets wrapped up while her husband stood along with his hands in his pockets.

As far as seats in crowded lunch rooms or restaurants go, men, who are in just as much of a hurry to get back to work as the women are, take the "first come first served" attitude and seldom if ever give up their tables. The women, on the other hand, seldom if ever seem to expect it.

What is surprising is the number of New Castle men, of all ages, who touch their hats when they greet women on the street. Few of them actually tip their hats, however, which is probably better for the shape of the hats anyway.

In other words, men are still very pleasant creatures, but they aren't Galahads any more. But then maybe Galahad wasn't all he was cracked up to be.

Health Talks

By DR. W. A. WOMER, City Health Superintendent

FUMIGATION

Sanitarians used to think that fumigation was a good thing.

When a patient recovered or died from a contagious disease, the room was fumigated.

Experience has discovered that fumigation is not much good and entirely unnecessary.

The germs do not live very long outside of the patients body.

When the sick person is gone, the disease is gone, too. Disinfectants and other articles which are used by the patient should be promptly taken care of.

If the room is aired and cleaned fumigation is not needed.

If a room or house is infested with bugs or fleas or other vermin, fumigation helps a lot.

Burning sulphur is perhaps the safest, cheapest and best way.

Woman Reporter Delves Into Wartime Politeness

What has the war done to the politeness of the average man or woman? Well, as far as can be accurately determined in one afternoon, not too much. Men still have a certain amount of courtesy, although it must be admitted that they don't force it on anyone.

Take this matter of opening doors, for example. Five times out of six, when a girl reporter was just "trying to find out" entered downtown stores, men standing near the door opened it for her. The sixth time, the man just stood and waited for her to open it herself.

They Let Women Out First
On buses, the men just getting home from work naturally grab for the nearest seats after they get on, but usually they stand back and allow the women to get on the buses first. And even after everyone is on, men—especially the older men, or the very young ones—stand up once in a while to give an older woman a seat. In fact men are still much quicker to give up their seats to older persons than young girls are.

Other little traditional courtesies were also in evidence along Washington street yesterday afternoon. Every man who was walking with a woman was on the outside, next to the street, either from accident or on purpose. Four of the couples had small babies with them, and it was the men, not the women, who were carrying them.

She Carried the Bundles
In another case, however, the woman was burdened down with what looked like two large blankets wrapped up while her husband strode along with his hands in his pockets.

As far as seats in crowded lunch rooms or restaurants go, men, who are in just as much of a hurry to get back to work as the women are, take the "first come first served" attitude and seldom if ever given up their tables. The women, on the other hand, seldom if ever seem to expect it.

What is surprising is the number of New Castle men, of all ages, who touch their hats when they greet women on the street. Few of them actually tip their hats, however, which is probably better for the shape of the hats anyway.

In other words, men are still very pleasant creatures, but they aren't Galahads any more. But then, maybe Galahad wasn't all he was cracked up to be.

STOCK MARKET OPENS STRONG

Volume Of Trading Drops Off After First Hour Surge This Morning

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The stock market lost some of its edge in the forenoon today after opening strong and active. Issues which had been up sizable fractions tapered when volume dropped off after the first hour surge which piled 258,000 shares.

U. S. Steel slipped from an early high of 57 1/2 to 57 1/4, off 1/4. Westinghouse Electric sold at 109 1/2, off 1/4. American Airlines and Douglas Aircraft ruled fractionally better.

U. S. Rubber and Woolworth receded 1/4 each.

Motors were steady around last night's closes. Santa Fe moved up 1/4 at the start but lost some of the gain. Pullman and General Electric softened.

The bond market was firm. Curb stocks were featured by a 4-point rise in Pittsburgh Metallurgical common.

KANE, Pa., Nov. 30.—(INS)—

Dengler was treated at the Community hospital at Kane for a gunshot wound of the hand.

Game wardens reported approximately a score of bears were killed in this area, and that despite bad driving weather large numbers of hunters were arriving for the opening of the deer season tomorrow.

Armored Night Of U.S. Forces Facing Germans Is Shown

Mass Of Fire Power Of All Categories Face Germans On Western Front

By JOHN L. LEE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Nov. 30.—If all U. S. army ordnance vehicles in the European theatre of operations were formed into a single convoy—with the regulation 60 yards combat zone spacing between each vehicle—they would stretch from New York to San Francisco, back to New York and then west again to Omaha.

And if the same convoy closed up bumper to bumper it would extend from Washington, D. C. to St. Louis, Mo.

That is one indication of the overwhelming weight of U. S. army ordnance now in action against Germany on the western front. Another is the fact that on D-day last June General Eisenhower had at his disposal in the ETO six times as many general and special service vehicles as did General Pershing on Armistice day in 1918.

Mass Of Fire Power

U. S. army ordnance arrayed against the Germans represents a mass of fire power of all categories. Some of the weapons are traditional and familiar like rifles, mortars and 76 mm guns. Others are of such novel design that their existence has only recently been announced.

Such weapons are the 8-inch gun, the 240 mm howitzer and the 6-inch howitzer. The 8-inch howitzer has a 200-pound projectile and is mounted on the same carriage as the famed 155 mm "Long Tom" gun.

The 8-inch gun and 240 mm howitzer are even more potent. They are mounted on wheeled carriages which enable them to go anywhere in the field that a tractor can tow them, and that means practically anywhere.

The 240 mm howitzer throws a projectile weighing over 300 pounds with pinpoint accuracy at a range of many miles. The 8-inch guns have still more range and similar accuracy but fire a somewhat lighter shell. Today these guns are well forward along the western front, throwing shells on targets far to the enemy's rear with the aid of aerial observation.

Germans Bewildered

Heavy American artillery of this type has proved a source of amazement to the Germans because of its mobility. The Germans have used such heavy guns only where railway servicing is possible instead of mounting them on carriages which can be towed across the countryside by prime movers.

At St. Malo a battery of the giant 8-inch guns laid direct fire at 2,000 yards on the citadel (fort) after being used at first to move hundreds of miles to new positions in a five-day march, as example of mobility never before known to heavy artillery. This mount and gun together weigh 35 tons but the unit can move nearly as fast as light field artillery.

Twenty-four men make up the full crew of an 8-inch gun, which can be made ready for firing several hours after arriving at a new position.

NEW YORK—Sumner Welles, former under-secretary of state:

"There are already signs that some peoples are feverishly maintaining that they can best achieve their future safety by recurring once more to that same sterile and futile system of security of pacts and military alliances to which they resorted in the years between the great wars."
